Mustimuhw Improves First Nations Patient Safety through PrescribelT®

April 9, 2020 (Vancouver) – Mustimuhw Information Solutions Inc. is pleased to announce it's helping to improve the safety of First Nations patients through an agreement with Canada Health Infoway's PrescribelT®. Through the agreement, Mustimuhw will integrate PrescribelT®, Canada's e-prescribing service, directly into its Community Electronic Medical Record (cEMR).

“PrescribelT® will help improve collaboration between prescribers and pharmacists,” said Mark Sommerfeld, CEO of Mustimuhw Information Solutions. “PrescribelT® will enable appropriate health care practitioners to communicate with pharmacists directly through their cEMR, saving time and improving safety.”

PrescribelT® can also be a significant asset in virtual care settings. It reduces the need for an in-person visit by enabling prescribers to electronically transmit prescriptions directly to pharmacies — an important tool as more physicians and nurse practitioners offer virtual care due to the current COVID-19 health crisis.

“We're excited to be working with Mustimuhw Information Solutions to integrate PrescribelT® and help improve patient outcomes,” said Jamie Bruce, Executive Vice President, Infoway. “It also makes prescribing safer when in-person visits aren't recommended.”

“We're pleased we will soon be able to prescribe electronically through the Mustimuhw cEMR with PrescribelT®,” said Kim Roberts, Health Director at Kwakiutl District Council. “PrescribelT® will make prescribing easier and more convenient for patients.”

Mustimuhw, a subsidiary of the Cowichan Tribes of British Columbia operates in seven provinces and supports care delivery in more than 297 First Nations communities in Canada. PrescribelT® will enable physicians and nurse practitioners to electronically transmit prescriptions directly into a pharmacy's management system. It also enables clinical communication between prescribers and pharmacists and allows prescribers to receive dispense notifications.
